

Record the harvest hive by hive with a batch code, which is what makes traceability possible if a jar is ever queried.

Supers taken, weight extracted, moisture where you measure it, and which hive it came from.

Honey sold to the public is a food, and labelling, moisture and traceability rules apply in most countries at small volumes. This records your harvest; what you must put on a jar is set where you are.

Registration, if any

Sold or given