

Household Chore Rota

Split the jobs between everyone in the house before the month starts, so the question of whose turn it is has already been answered in writing.

Jobs down the side, weeks across the top, initials in the boxes. Filled in together at the start of the month, it stops being an argument about who did what last time.

HOW IT WORKS

Agree it before the month starts, not after somebody has already not done the bins. Write initials rather than names — the boxes are small, and initials are quick enough that people actually fill them in.
