

Keep your own copy of every movement on and off, with the reference numbers that make it possible to answer a question about a load six months afterwards.

Animals on and off the holding — when, how many, which, from where and to where.

Movements usually have to be reported to an authority within a set time, on a form and by a method that differ by country and species. This sheet is your own copy of what happened; it is not a notification and does not replace one. Check what you must report and how long records must be kept.
